

The refugees of World War I re-evacuation from Soviet Russia in 1922–1923: the final stage

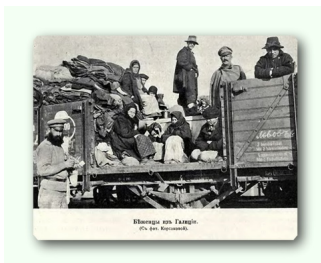

Written by Belova I.B.
Tuesday, 05 July 2022 03:43

Belova I.B.

The refugees of World War I re-evacuation from Soviet Russia in 1922–1923: the final stage

Annotation

The article is devoted the concluding period of World War I refugees homecoming - that temporarily placed in the center of the European Russia, natives of the territories which have departed to the Poland and the Baltic Republics. For the first time the result of influence of reduction and liquidation of the state evacuation device, the numerous termination of registration and free sending of refugees, changes of rules of official registration of papers on process of repatriation of refugees are shown.

Keywords

Refugees of World War I, planned re-evacuation, spontaneous movement of refugees, foreign diplomatic missions, the Central People Evacuation Board, Ministry of Internal Affairs

Download the article: pdf

About the authors

Belova Irina Borisovna - senior lecturer, Kaluga State University, doctoral student of the Bryansk State University, PhD in History, Kaluga; +7-905-640-51-43; irina-25.01@mail.ru

You can read completely article in the russian historic-archival magazine “The Herald of an Archivist”. Read more about terms of subscription here .

Полностью материал публикуется в российском историко-архивоведческом журнале ВЕСТНИК АРХИВИСТА. Ознакомьтесь с условиями подписки здесь .