

Tajdinova I.G.

The parenthood problem of front-line soldiers of Great patriotic war. The research of private culture of Soviet people in war time. On material of private correspondence

Annotation

The new outlook on the history of the Great Patriotic War is closely connected with the fact that the problem has assumed a “human dimension” of studying private culture of soviet people under war time conditions. The solution of the problem are connected with the utilization and analysis of epistolary sources. The article studies nature and content of written communication front-line soldiers with their children and wives. It is concluded that soldiers participate in the lives of children their education moral and material support.

Written by Tajidinova I.G.

Thursday, 20 October 2022 04:56

Keywords

Source study, epistolary sources, the Great Patriotic War 1941–1945, front-line soldiers, family correspondence, parenthood, front-line and rear routine

Download the article: pdf

About the authors

Tajidinova Irina Gennadievna - associate professor, Department of Sociology, Kuban State University, PhD in History, Krasnodar; 8-861-267-27-87; 8-962-860-77-77;
tajidinova@yandex.ru

You can read completely article in the russian historic-archival magazine “The Herald of an Archivist”. Read more about terms of subscription here .

Полностью материал публикуется в российском историко-архивоведческом журнале ВЕСТНИК АРХИВИСТА. Ознакомьтесь с условиями подписки здесь .